Introduction

to the handicap in basketball

Handicap in basketball is a form of bet that levels the chances of both players or teams in a determined event. This is done by giving one of the sides an advantage, which can be, for example, points more. In this article, we will focus on the handicap.

When and where the handicap is applied in basketball

It is used mainly when the difference between the two teams is large between the two teams. The bookmaker gives an initial disadvantage to the favorite team through the handicap.

The importance of the handicap in basketball

Handicap offers a fair way to equalize the game by minimizing the risks for the bettors. The bookmaker incentives bettors through the use of handicaps to bet on the less favored teams. However, tactically, it is difficult to consistently win in the long run, and the odds generally favor the bookmaker in betting.

Advantages of using the handicap in basketball

- Greater equality in the competition

- Special offers from betting houses

- Greater engagement in the match

- Greater reward when winning the bet

How the handicap works in basketball

The handicap is added

(or subtracted) to the final result for betting purposes. If a favorite team starts with a handicap of -5, it means that the team must win by more than five points, while the underdog starts with an initial advantage.
